Program Outline

7:15 – 7:45 Registration

7:45 – 8:00 Introduction and Announcements

Diane E. Wasznicky, JD, CFLS

8:00 – 10:00 “Effective Coping Tools for Children”

Much has been written about the direct effects of parental conflict, including long-term exposure to toxic stress and other traumatic effects. Less has been written on the devastating effect that these dynamics can have on normal child development and the child’s ability to learn the critical coping abilities needed for the rest of the child’s life. Parents’ concerns tend to be louder and attract the most professional attention, which may lead to the child’s needs being overlooked. This presentation will focus on these critical coping skills and the paths through which children can attain them. The presenters will address the challenges faced by decision-makers as well as other legal and mental health professionals, in recognizing children in trouble and creating the circumstances that will give them a better chance at healthy development. The role of children’s engagement in other systems, and appropriate selection of services, will be addressed.

Presenters: Dr. Lyn R. Greenberg, PhD., ABPP and Jessica Wharton, MA, LMFT

10:00 – 10:15 Break

10:15 – 11:30 Continuation of Morning Program

12:30 – 12:45 Break

12:45 – 2:45 “Helping Parents Help Kids”

Panel members delve into mental health and attorney-related interventions outside of litigation. This information will provide practitioners with tools to help clients and their children. Gain insights on family therapy, coparent counseling, child therapy, and more to address conflicts and support children's needs. Discover how attorneys can intervene to protect children's interests in highly conflicted families. Also, discover how attorneys acting as Special Masters can make decisions to protect the children’s best interest. Explore the crucial role of the court in overseeing such interventions. Expand your knowledge and contribute to the well-being of children in challenging family situations.

Presenters: Hon. Kara K. Ueda; Charlotte L. Keeley, JD, CFLS; Kristine S. Cummings, JD, CFLS; and Dr. Lyn R. Greenberg, PhD., ABPP.

2:45 – 3:00 Break

3:00 – 5:00 Continuation of Afternoon Program

Join us at our information table during breaks to discover powerful tools to increase the peace and end high-conflict parenting
