

YOUR CLIENT WANTS A DIVORCE What They Need and How You Can Help!

As therapists, we are frequently helping clients consider divorce; or helping them with tumultuous emotions as they go through the process; or supporting them to rebuild their lives in the aftermath of this major life transition and emotional challenges.

This workshop is designed for therapists in private practice. You will find relevant information about divorce, the various legal processes available, and how to best guide your clients to the right resources. We are committed to helping families restructure themselves in productive ways, bypassing as much pain and turmoil as possible.

There will be additional information you can use NOW in your current therapy practice when working with divorcing clients. And you may find yourself inspired to expand your practice; to include working collaboratively with other professionals making a positive difference in your client's lives.

When: Friday, March 19, 2021
